Jon Sarche named as Colorado Judicial Branch public information coordinator

DENVER, Colo. – The Colorado Judicial Branch announced today that Jon Sarche has joined the department as the public information coordinator. Jon joins Rob McCallum on the communications team and will be working on projects related to public education and outreach, publications, Web site content and media-related issues.

“Jon’s years of experience as a journalist covering courts in Colorado will prove to be a great asset to the branch,” said Chief Justice Mary Mullarkey. “We are pleased to have Jon on board as we further our community and media outreach efforts.”

Jon has more than 15 years of experience as a staff writer for The Associated Press and has covered legislative, business and political news. In 2003, Jon developed a legal-affairs beat within Associated Press devoted to covering Colorado laws, opinions rendered by the appellate courts and their effects on the state’s residents. Jon has a Bachelor of Science degree in journalism from the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Jon can be reached at 303-837-3644 or via email at jon.sarche@judicial.state.co.us
