Patti owned a construction company and worked as a general building contractor/developer in California from 1988 – 2005. (CA Lic. #545287) doing projects for both the public and private sectors. In 1992 she was recruited by the CA State License Board (CSLB) and received training and certification through the State of California as an arbitrator and where her involvement in alternate dispute resolution began. In addition to running her construction business, she served the CSLB as an Arbitrator for construction defect cases and began doing other types of ADR as well until returning to her home state of Colorado in January of 2005. Commencing in 2006, she helped as a volunteer community mediator in a program funded by Mesa County, in addition to learning CO DR law and mediating family law cases. Patti joined ODR in 2012 as a contract mediator. She has mediated more than 3,000 cases.

Patti's education began with a focus on business. After earning a B.A. from Cal State Fullerton, she continued her studies at UC Riverside and the University of La Verne College of Law. She continues to take classes and training primarily focused on family law.

Other ADR experience includes:

Served one term on the Daimler/Chrysler Arbitration Panel (SOCAL)
