

Jackie Deam, Esq., owner of J Deam Law, LLC has worked in the field of family law for over a decade. J Deam Law, LLC provides mediation services statewide.

Shortly after graduating Pepperdine Law School in 2009, Jackie was hired as an associate attorney at the Children's Law Center of Los Angeles. While working at the Children's Law Center, Jackie provided zealous representation for foster care children in their dependency and neglect hearings.

Upon relocating to Colorado, Jackie accepted the position of Family Court Facilitator, for the Ninth Judicial District, where she found a home for over seven years. As Family Court Facilitator, Jackie case managed thousands of domestic relations cases while working in close contact with the 9th Judicial judges, magistrates, and family law attorneys. Additionally, Jackie initiated the pro-bono event, "Family Law Day" in the 9th judicial district, which is a bi-annual event providing the community with free legal resources, including legal advice and mediation services.

In 2019, Jackie recognized the need for collaborative law and quality alternative dispute resolution services in the local Roaring Fork Valley. As a mother of two young children, and as a child of a contentious divorce herself, Jackie understands that compassion and understanding are at the heart of a successful mediation. She prides herself in her ability to help guide clients through one of the most difficult situations they may ever have to experience. Jackie is committed to providing families the necessary tools and long-term plans to support the whole family. Her astute knowledge of the law and experience working in family law is invaluable in this collaborative, hands-on approach to conflict resolution. She understands that the critical methods of resolution are not a "one size fits all". Jackie focuses on keeping positive co-parenting and family dynamics intact for the benefit of the parties and their children's future.
