MEDIATION / ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION ORDER (DOMESTIC RELATIONS CASE)

1. The Court finds that the interests of a just, speedy and economic resolution of the disputes herein would be served by referral of this action to mediation, or to some other form of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR). Mediation provides an opportunity for parties to resolve differences concerning children, property, and financial issues that are addressed in a legal separation, or dissolution of marriage/civil union without excessive expenditure of time, energy, and money. The basic premise of mediation is that the parties involved in the dispute are best suited to resolve their own differences, and are in the best position to arrive at solutions that may address the needs of all parties involved.
2. The Court also finds that no one has advised the court that they are unwilling to enter into mediation or ADR because they are the victim of physical or psychological abuse by the other party.
3. Accordingly, pursuant to the Colorado Dispute Resolution Act, §13-22-301, C.R.S. et seq. and specifically §13-22-311, C.R.S. the Court orders that, except as provided in paragraph 8 of this Order, all claims in this action are hereby referred to mediation.
4. All parties are ordered to cooperate in arranging for, and participating in, mediation. Each party shall be present personally at the mediation session, unless telephone conference arrangements are made directly with the Mediator.

The Court orders that mediation be set up in sufficient time so that it will be completed as follows:

- _____ days before the next hearing;
- within _____ days from the date of this Order; or
- by the following date: _____

9. Except as expressly provided in this Order, applicable Colorado statutes, rules and/or case law shall govern the mediation or other ADR process.
10. The expense of mediation or other ADR process shall be the responsibility of the parties, and shall be divided equally between the parties unless otherwise agreed.
11. When using mediation, the parties are advised that:
  - ◆ The primary purpose of the mediator's service is to assist them to reach a mutually acceptable resolution of their dispute.
  - ◆ The mediator chosen may or may not be a lawyer, but the mediator cannot and will not provide legal advice to either or both parties.
  - ◆ Any documents used and prepared by the mediator are ancillary to the mediation process and do not constitute legal advice.
  - ◆ The mediator is not obligated to identify or resolve legal issues.
  - ◆ The parties' settlement may result in the waiver or compromise of legal rights.
  - ◆ It is the responsibility of the parties to obtain legal advice if they so choose. Any mediator chosen by the parties who operates under a written Agreement to Mediate, which includes these advisements, shall be authorized by this court to act as the parties' mediator. In so doing, the mediator may develop and draft a Memorandum of Understanding that reduces the agreement of the parties to writing, if requested by the parties.
12. The parties are reminded that if mediation is to address any financial issues that they are to provide to each other the disclosures required by C.R.C.P. 16.2(e)(2) at least five days prior to the mediation, and shall also bring the disclosures to the mediation session.
