

Spanish Speaking Mediators

Independent Contractors Approved by the Colorado Office of Dispute Resolution

The best option for court-ordered mediations involving limited English proficient (LEP) individuals is an interpreter who has passed the court interpreter testing. To access a certified court interpreter, please contact the Managing Interpreter in the judicial district in which your case is pending. Bilingual mediators may or may not have passed this examination, but all have demonstrated proficiency in the language required to conduct mediations in Spanish. If a bilingual mediator is not available, an approved language interpreter will be used to provide the required language access throughout the mediation process. To request a court interpreter for your mediation, please go here.
