

Colorado Probation Fact Sheet

Fiscal Year 2015

Colorado Probation is an important component of the criminal justice system. It provides the court and the community with an alternative to incarceration for adults and juveniles who commit crimes. Probation staff are state employees and work under the administrative authority of the Judicial District's Chief Judge and Chief Probation Officer in each of the 22 judicial districts.

5 out of 7 (70%)

70 % of probationers successfully complete probation (includes regular, private and intensive supervision) .

$8 million

$8 million in fees and surcharges were collected and used to assist probationers with court ordered treatment and services.

$28.5 million

$28.5 million in restitution was collected and distributed to victims. An additional $23.3 million was collected for victim assistance and compensation.

Completed Reports & Active Population

Probation officers must hold a Bachelor's degree and complete the academy and attend annual training.

15,757 victims of crime were notified by probation staff of their rights as designated in the Victim Rights Amendment enacted in 1993.

19% of victims exercised their right to receive notification of critical probation events under the Victim Rights Amendment.

Division of Probation Services (DPS), which operates within the State Court Administrator's Office (SCAO), works with probation departments to employ assessments and case management strategies in accordance with policy. DPS develops and publishes guidelines and standards for regular probation and all intensive programs. Within the limits of statute and these state standards, each district may develop and structure programs that address the needs of the local court and community.

Dollars and Sense of Probation

Probation provides an opportunity for an offender to remain in the community with supervision and specific conditions. Many probationers support themselves and their families, pay taxes and restitution and have access to a greater variety of treatment, education and training options than those

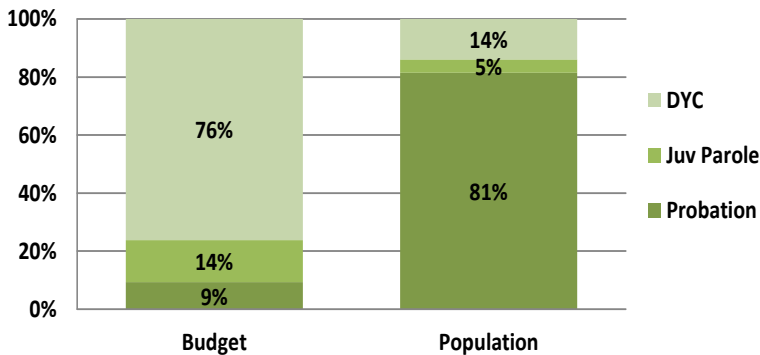

▶ The cost of corrections is directly related to the level of containment of each sentencing option

▶ As Probation is community based and the least restrictive, it is also the least expensive option

PROBATION IS A COST EFFECTIVE UTILIZATION OF TAXPAYER DOLLARS.

Each of the correctional agencies receives funding as determined by the Legislature. General fund budget appropriations are distributed as shown in these charts (other dollars may be available through grants, cash funds, etc.). Correctional agencies also receive funding for treatment and other services for offenders, either in place of incarceration, during incarceration or to prepare for and assist in re-entry after incarceration.
