I am absolutely horrified to hear Al state his mother and sister had slept in Gannon's room and he had to ask them to get all their stuff together because it may have been a crime scene. How must these people feel knowing they slept on a mattress that had blood seeped in it and sleeping in a bed that was over a patch of blood that had soaked through floor and onto the concrete, just under Gannon's bed! Their grandson & nephew who had been brutally murdered by this evil monster. What a sick woman. No wonder she wanted to run, imagine if they had ...

I'll tell ya what... for someone "insane or with a mental defect", she sure can put together a very detailed cohesive lengthy timeline of exact events (yes, putting the inconsistencies aside)... overall I'm quite impressed. Good job Tecia... I'm sure this is gonna leave a great impression on the jury also.

This father's composure during the recorded phone calls with this monster is absolutely Godly. At this point, hes already putting the pieces together that LS story is bogus. I just can't imagine the anguish. But he did a stellar performance, locking her into a timeline better than a seasoned detective. Wow.

she shouldn't be allowed to plug her ears or put in earbuds or anything similar. she is the person making everyone go through this lengthy trail by claiming insanity. if a jury has to go through the whole trail listening to every detail, so should she! it's infuriating watching her sit in her little corner and pay no attention.

My heart just goes out to this father. He is so strong to be able to do this, walk with the court through his house which used to be a sanctuary, but is now a place where his son was murdered. Wish I could give him a hug. Wishing his family all the best. I hope the trial will be over quickly.

This is a classic case of step monster. Not insanity, not a psychotic "snap" of all the wrong done to her... Gannon was her intended target and he was no match for her level of hatred and resentment. She deserves nothing. Justice for Gannon

The way she talks to this poor little boy when he simply needs a parenting figure to help him, completely inappropriate. Having to sell things to fix something for the landlord is not a child's problem AT ALL! She is a monster!

The father sounds like such a reasoned respectful man and Gannon sounds like he was a sweet kid. It's a very sad case. My heart breaks for the family. I do wish the prosecutor had handled the timeline better rather than keep jumping around. He could have made this easier for the jurors to follow

My little brother had the same bowel issues and the doctor said that kids will do this when they are stressed out and hold their stool. Then it gets stressful dealing with the constipation. My brother had a loving mother, but my dad was a stressful man for his least favorite kids. Trust me, I know how he made the kids feel. I bet Gannon felt the same with this lady caring for him. She sounds like she's on drugs. This conversation is all over the place with the "Yada, Yada, yada" the "whatever" and other additional nothing words. I would never tell a story like ...

People say they are blown away by how the father investigated this but i imagine that if i had kids and this happened to me, i would relentlessly grill and pick apart the person and their story over and over until i found my child or the truth about what happened to them. That's a father who loves his son.

She only cries on the phone when it has to do with her own wellbeing and what she has been through. It haunts me to think of the horror that little boy went through during the last days of his life. She is perfectly sane in my opinion and EVIL is too nice of a description for a monster like that.

She doesn't sound crazy. She sounds like a manipulative narcissist like my stepmother. The stuff they do sounds crazy because no decent human would behave the way they do, but they 100% know what they are doing.
