STATEMENT OF ISSUES PRESENTED

1. Did the Title Board err by describing the single subject of Initiative 2015-2016 #60 as authorizing the sale of “full strength beer and wine” in food stores, even though that phrase appears nowhere in the initiative itself and thus does not accurately or fairly describe the actual text to be considered by voters?
2. Did the Title Board err by including in the title a political slogan, “full strength beer and wine,” language used by the proponents prominently at campaign events and determined by the U.S. Supreme Court to be an influential advertising phrase?
3. Did the Title Board err by failing to inform voters that applicants for the newly created food store license, who already hold a license allowing sale of 3.2% beer for off-premises consumption, are not subject to the commonly understood, mandatory showing that new liquor licenses meet the needs and desires of the inhabitants of the neighborhood in which the new licensee is to be located?

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

I. Disposition below

Blake Harrison and John Grayson Robinson (hereafter “Proponents”) proposed Initiative 2015-2016 #60 (the “Proposed Initiative”). Review and comment hearings were held before representatives of the Offices of Legislative Council and Legislative Legal Services. Thereafter, the Proponents submitted final versions of the Proposed Initiative to the Secretary of State for purposes of submission to the Title Board, of which the Secretary or his designee is a member.

A Title Board hearing was held on January 6, 2016 to establish the single subjects of the Proposed Initiative and set their titles. On January 13, 2016, Petitioner filed a Motion for Rehearing, alleging that the titles set were prejudicial, incomplete, and misleading and failed to reflect the complete intent of the Proponents and the central features of the Proposed Initiative. The rehearing was held on January 20, 2016, at which time the Title Board denied portions of the Motion for Rehearing as it pertains to this appeal. A notice of appeal of this decision was timely filed with this Court pursuant to C.R.S. § 1-40-107(2).

II. Statement of the facts

Proponents seek to amend the Colorado Revised Statutes to allow for sale of malt and vinous liquors in what is denominated by the initiative as a “food store.” Section 1 of their measure would create a “food store license” to allow for sale of malt and vinous liquors in any facility that earns at least twenty-five percent of its gross annual income from the sale of food, excluding income received from sale of fuel and lottery tickets. This is a broad-ranging measure, as Initiative 2015-2016 #60 (“#60”) would open each grocery store and convenience store in the state to such alcohol sales.

Part of their measure includes a provision that changes the decades-long practice of requiring a showing of need for such a license in the relevant neighborhood and that such license is consistent with the desires of the inhabitants who reside therein. Instead, this requirement can be waived for persons holding a license for sale of 3.2% beer for off-premises consumption – at the sole and unchallengeable discretion of the local licensing authority. In essence, #60 seeks to silence neighbors by waiving this time honored requirement as a precondition to deciding whether a liquor licensee should locate in their midst. And according to the Proponents themselves, this change will affect 1,500 licensees statewide – certainly hundreds and hundreds of neighborhoods.

The Title Board agreed with portions of the Petitioner's Motion for Rehearing and set the ballot title and submission clause for #60 as follows:

Shall there be a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning the sale of full-strength beer and wine by food stores, and, in connection therewith, creating a license allowing food stores to sell malt and vinous liquors, commonly referred to as full-strength beer and wine, for off-premises consumption; defining a food store as an establishment that earns at least 25% of its annual gross income, excluding income from fuel products and lottery ticket sales, from the sale of food; allowing a food store that holds a valid license to sell fermented malt beverages, commonly referred to as 3.2% beer, to apply to become a food store licensee; allowing the ownership of multiple food store licenses, including by the owners of certain retail liquor licenses; and prohibiting the sale of full-strength beer or wine by a food store employee who is under twenty-one years of age?

See Exhibit A, attached hereto.

SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

The Title Board incorporated a phrase – “full-strength beer and wine” – that simply does not appear in the measure. It has no particular legal or even descriptive significance, except for one aspect. It was used in the Proponents’ political jargon on the day they announced their measure. The banners used prominently reference “full-strength beer” and do so, presumably for a purpose: it has value as political jargon.

Even if the phrase was not a political catch phrase in violation of the Board’s statutory duty to set a fair and clear title, it is unwarranted because it does not accurately represent the measure. It has no particular meaning to voters and should have been omitted from the title.

Finally, the Board’s failure to include the measure’s modification to the requirement for neighborhood input as to 1,500 liquor licenses – when that aspect of citizens’ voicing their support or opposition to a new or different license is so engrained in the process – was error. Voters should know that citizen input will not be mandatory for food store licensees who are switching from their 3.2% beer licenses, but instead will be discretionary – at the option of the local licensing authority.

The titles should be returned to the Board for appropriate corrective action.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

I. Standard of review; preservation of issues below.

The Title Board is required to set a title that “correctly and fairly express[es] the true intent and meaning” of the initiative. C.R.S. § 1-40-106(3)(b). The title need not be perfect, but similarly, it cannot mislead voters. In re Title, Ballot Title and Submission Clause for Initiative 2007-2008 #62, 184 P.3d 52, 58 (Colo. 2008). A title is flawed where its words will unfairly push voters to support or oppose a measure, which occurs where there is “a material and significant omission, misstatement, or misrepresentation.” Id. at 57. The title need not set out every last detail of a measure. Still, the Board’s work product falls short where it is not “fair, clear, accurate, and complete,” such that the resulting title is “insufficient, unfair, or misleading.” Id. at 60.

As part of the Board’s responsibility to set a clear and fair title, the title may not include a political slogan or catch phrase. “Catch phrases are words that work to a proposal’s favor without contributing to voter understanding... [and] generate support for a proposal that hinges not on the content of the proposal itself, but merely on the wording of the catch phrase.” Id. (citation omitted).

These issues were raised in the Motion for Rehearing before the Title Board.

See Exhibit A, Motion for Rehearing at 1-2, 3-4.

II. The title should not include the phrase, “full-strength beer and wine.”

1. “Full-strength beer and wine” is a contrived phrase that is not even used in the measure’s text.

For the title setting process, the Board agreed to use the invented phrase, “full-strength beer and wine.” It did so twice, first in the single subject statement and again in the body of the title. In so doing, the Board erred.

As it pertains to this initiative, this phrase has no identifiable meaning. It is not used in the initiative itself. It is not used in existing statute. It cannot be found in Colorado case law. It was simply a contrived phrase that is used to denote the malt and vinous liquors that are governed by this measure.

The responsibility of the Title Board is to reflect the measure itself in the ballot title. The purpose of the ballot title and submission clause is “only to fairly reflect the content of the measure.” Matter of Title, Ballot Title and Submission Clause, and Summary for a Petition on Campaign and Political Finance, 877 P.2d 311, 313 (Colo. 1994). The Board achieves this objective where “the titles track the Initiative.” #62, supra, 184 P.3d at 60. The Board does not err where it “utilize[s] the language of the initiative nearly verbatim.” Matter of Proposed Constitutional Amendment under the Designation “Pregnancy,” 757 P.2d 132, 136 (Colo. 1988).

There is clear precedent for requiring specificity about the type of alcohol to be sold in neighborhood food stores in Colorado. In Matter of Title, Ballot Title and Submission Clause, and Summary Pertaining to Sale of Table Wine in Grocery Stores, 646 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1982), the proposed measure would have allowed a grocery store to sell “table wine.” That phrase was defined as “all wine not exceeding fourteen percent of alcohol by volume.” Id. at 920. As a result, the Title Board set a title that pertained to grocery store sale of “wine containing not more than fourteen percent of alcohol by volume in sealed containers.” Id. at 924.

Presumably, by using “full-strength beer,” the Board intended to allude to beer that is a “malt liquor” as specifically referred to in the measure and defined in existing statute. Proposed § 12-47-425(1); C.R.S. § 12-47-102(19) (“malt liquor” is a fermented beverage such as beer containing more than 3.2% alcohol by weight). But “full-strength” is a non-specific reference. For instance, “full-strength beer” is beer that contains 3.7% alcohol by weight. A B C Brewing Corp. v. Commission of Internal Revenue, 20 T.C. 515, 522 (1953). Just as easily, the maximum alcohol content of beer can be more than double that amount – 8% by weight. Hoehne v. Oregon Liquor Control Comm'n, 588 P.2d 87, 88 (Or. 1978). There is no singular or clear definition of what a “full-strength” beer is. No evidence was placed before the Title Board as to the contours of “full-strength” beer. Thus, there is no specific, understandable meaning for voters.

Courts do not take judicial notice of the strength of beer because it is a variable concept. It is unreasonable to think that if the judicial branch requires this level of specificity and clarity, voters do not. Courts will not take judicial notice of the intoxicating nature of malt liquor and beer “because of the varying percentages of alcohol in such drinks.” Defusion Co. v. Utah Liquor Control Comm’n, 613 P.2d 1120, 1124 (Utah 1980). Neither will courts “take judicial notice that a beverage has a certain alcoholic content, merely upon proof that it is beer.” State v. Henry, 254 S.W.2d 307, 309 (Mo. 1953). If the courts cannot intuit the level of alcoholic strength of beer due to the array of possible alcohol percentages contained therein, voters cannot be presumed to do so either. It was a failure on the part of the Title Board to include this confusing, non-textual reference in the ballot title.

2. “Full-strength beer and wine” is a political catch phrase.

“Full-strength beer and wine” is a political catch phrase and is thus prohibited from being included in the title. A catch phrase consists of “words which could form the basis of a slogan for use by those who expect to carry out a campaign for or against an initiated constitutional amendment.” In the Matter of the Proposed Initiative on Casino Gaming, 649 P.2d 303, 308 (Colo.1982). Evaluating whether particular words constitute a slogan or catch phrase must be made “in the context of contemporary public debate.” In the Matter of the Proposed Initiative on Workers Compensation, 850 P.2d 144, 147 (Colo.1993).

When Proponents announced this measure last year, their speakers appeared before two oversized campaign banners that read:

- “42 States Sell Full-Strength Beer or Wine in Grocery Stores. Why Not Colorado?” (emphasis added); and
- “Want to Buy Wine and Full-Strength Beer?” (emphasis added).

The two banners were placed so that they could be displayed in news stories, and they were.<sup>1</sup> There can be no question that Proponents seek to make “full-strength beer and wine” a prominent part of contemporary political discourse over this issue.

Literally and figuratively, this invented phrase is the backdrop of the Proponents’ campaign, and their political rhetoric is intertwined with the ballot title. As the Court found in connection with other phrases deemed to be prohibited political catch phrases in ballot titles, “We have little difficulty concluding that [the challenged wording] could form the basis of a slogan for use by those campaigning in favor of the Initiative.” In re Title, Ballot Title and Submission Clause, and Summary Pertaining to an Initiative Designated “Governmental Business,” 875 P.2d 761, 876 (Colo. 1994). Clearly, “full-strength beer and wine” is already the “basis of a slogan” to be used by those who are conducting this campaign. A phrase that does not even exist in the initiative itself, “full-strength beer and wine” should not be part of the ballot title because it functions as a political catch phrase for Proponents.

In Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S. 476 (1995), the U.S. Supreme Court addressed whether several phrases – including “full-strength” – could be used for purposes of marketing beer. Id. at 481 (citing 27 C.F.R. § 7.29(f) (1994)). The Court struck down federal regulations that allowed the use of “full-strength” in ads but not on the beer bottles themselves, holding that the use of such phrases in advertising was even “more influential” than its use on product labels at the point of sale. Id. at 488.

Rarely is there precedent from the United States Supreme Court that a particular phrase is one used to curry favor in the public opinion realm. In combination with the Proponents’ open use of that very phrase on its campaign banners at campaign kick-off events, it is hard to see how “full-strength beer” adds to voter understanding, particularly as it is never used in the measure itself. Instead, it is campaign jargon built into the ballot title. Thus, it violates the prohibition on the inclusion of political catch phrases in ballot titles and should be stricken from the titles.

III. The title fails to state that 1,500 licensees who convert from a 3.2% beer license to a food store license need not establish needs and desires of local inhabitants unless local licensing authorities require it.

For existing fermented malt beverage licensees converting to a food store license, #60 makes the otherwise mandatory showing of neighborhood needs and desires for the new license optional – at the discretion of the local licensing authority. Proposed § 12-47-425(4). Subsection (4) applies to any “licensee under section 12-46-104(1)(c) with a valid fermented malt beverage license in effect on July 1, 2017.” Historically, prospective licensees have been required to show that they are filling an unmet need and that their soon-to-be neighbors want a liquor establishment, selling the types of alcohol that they are selling, in their immediate environment. See § C.R.S. 12-47-301(2)(a) (“Before granting any license, all licensing authorities shall consider... , the reasonable requirements of the neighborhood [and] the desires of the adult inhabitants as evidenced by petitions, remonstrances, or otherwise”).

Petitioning to determine whether a community wants the licensed premises to offer regulated products is the most commonly understood aspect of the liquor licensing process. To affected neighborhoods, the mandate for petitions or other showings of support for the proposed license allow for significant community input to the governmental authority making the licensing decision. See, e.g., Kornfeld v.

Yost, 519 P.2d 219, 220 (Colo. App. 1976) (1,300 signatures on petitions in favor of and opposed to license), rev'd on other grounds, 567 P.2d 383 (Colo. 1977); Bd. of Cty. Com'rs v. Whale, 154 Colo. 271, 272 (1964) (969 signatures on petitions in favor of and opposed to license); Schooley v. Steinberg, 365 P.2d 245, 246 (Colo. 1961) (1,210 signatures on petitions in favor and opposed to license).

Such a showing of the needs and desires of the neighborhood has a notable legal impact. For instance, these showings alone can be sufficient to make a prima facie case for the granting of a liquor license. Bd. of Cty. Com'rs of Adams Cty. v. Nat'l Tea Co., 367 P.2d 909, 910 (Colo. 1961) (granting of license was warranted where 1,230 residents, business owners, and employees of the neighborhood signed petitions in support of the license, as did 227 non-residents; one competitor opposed the license). That such showings will become optional if #60 is adopted represents a significant departure from current law.

This departure is all the more notable when it is understood that there are about 1,500 current malt beverage licensees who can and will transition over to a food store license, should #60 pass. This point was made by the Proponents before the Title Board. See Exhibit B, attached hereto, at 19:8-12. In hundreds of neighborhoods throughout the state, then, licenses will transition from 3.2% beer to “full-strength beer and wine.” This very different product offering would not be the subject of the almost routine showing of neighborhood needs and desires, and this change of course is a central feature of #60 that must be addressed in the title.

Where a ballot initiative deprives citizens of the right to engage in a central democratic right such as the petitioning of government, it is certainly a notable aspect of the measure that requires voter awareness. See Evans v. Romer, 854 P.2d 1270, 1282 (Colo.1993). This conclusion is supported by this Court’s decision on a comparable measure. Where the initiative summary established by the Board addressed then-existing law relating to “requirements of the neighborhood and desires of the inhabitants,” that reference was appropriate. Table Wine, supra, 646 P.2d at 922. The title’s explanation of the measure’s interaction with then-existing law was warranted. “Since the proposed initiative deals with the sale of an alcoholic beverage, we see nothing improper in the Board’s providing information of a significant effect of existing law on the initiative.” Id. at 921.

#60 does not incorporate existing law, by reference or otherwise; it changes the guarantee of public involvement in the licensing process. And it does so for more than one thousand food-related enterprises (including convenience stores as well as grocery stores) throughout the state. Yet, the title is silent on the issue. That silence is error that can be corrected by a plain statement that food store licensees, transitioning from a 3.2% beer license, may be exempted from making needs and desires showings as a condition to licensure, based on the discretion of the local licensing authority.

CONCLUSION

Because the Title Board erred, its titles should be returned to permit the Board to correct the errors cited herein.

MOTION FOR REHEARING ON INITIATIVE 2015-2016 #60

Jeanne M. McEvoy, through legal counsel, Recht Kornfeld P.C., objects to the Title Board's title and ballot title and submission clause set for Initiative 2015-16 #60 ("Food Store License").

I. The Title Board set a title for Initiative 2015-16 #60 on January 6, 2016.

At the hearing held in connection with this proposed initiative, the Board designated and fixed the following ballot title and submission clause:

Shall there be a change to the Colorado Revised Statutes concerning the sale of full-strength beer and wine by food stores, and, in connection therewith, creating a license allowing food stores to sell malt and vinous liquors, commonly referred to as full-strength beer and wine, for off-premises consumption; defining a food store as an establishment that earns at least 25% of its annual gross income from the sale of food; allowing a food store that holds a valid license to sell fermented malt beverages, commonly referred to as 3.2%beer, to apply to become a food store licensee; allowing the ownership of multiple food store licenses, including by the owners of certain retail liquor licenses; and prohibiting the sale of full-strength beer or wine by a food store employee who is under twenty-one years of age?

II. The title set for #60 is misleading and prejudicial.

A. The title should not include the phrase, "full-strength beer and wine."

1. "Full-strength beer and wine" is a contrived phrase.

For the title setting process, the Proponents invented the phrase "full-strength beer and wine." The Board erred in agreeing to use of this phrase anywhere in the titles.

This phrase has no specific meaning. It is not used in the initiative itself. The titles' statement that full-strength beer and wine "commonly refer[]" to malt and vinous liquors is without foundation. As such, it undermines voter understanding and should be excluded from the title.

2.     "Full-strength beer and wine" is a political catch phrase.

"Full-strength beer and wine" is a political catch phrase and is thus prohibited from being included in the title. A catch phrase consists of "words which could form the basis of a slogan for use by those who expect to carry out a campaign for or against an initiated constitutional amendment." In the Matter of the Proposed Initiative on Casino Gaming, 649 P.2d 303, 308 (Colo. 1982). Evaluating whether particular words constitute a slogan or catch phrase must be made "in the context of contemporary public debate." In the Matter of the Proposed Initiative on Workers Compensation, 850 P.2d 144, 147 (Colo. 1993).

When Proponents announced this measure last year, their speakers appeared before two oversized campaign banners that read:

- "42 States Sell Full-Strength Beer or Wine in Grocery Stores. Why Not Colorado?" (see Exhibit A) (emphasis added); and
- "Want to Buy Wine and Full-Strength Beer?" (see Exhibit B) (emphasis added).

The two were placed so that they could be displayed in news stories, and they were. (See Exhibit C.) There can be no question that Proponents seek to make "full-strength beer and wine" a prominent part of contemporary political discourse over this issue.

Literally and figuratively, this invented phrase is the backdrop of the Proponents' campaign, and now they seek to intertwine their political rhetoric with the ballot title. As the Supreme Court found in connection with other phrases deemed to be prohibited political catch phrases in ballot titles, "We have little difficulty concluding that [the challenged wording] could form the basis of a slogan for use by those campaigning in favor of the Initiative." In re Title, Ballot Title and Submission Clause, and Summary Pertaining to an Initiative Designated "Governmental Business," 875 P.2d 761, 876 (Colo. 1994). Clearly, "full-strength beer and wine" is already the "basis of a slogan" to be used by those who are conducting this campaign. A phrase that does not even exist in the initiative itself, "full-strength beer and wine" should not be part of the ballot title because it functions as a political catch phrase for Proponents.

In Coors Brewing Co. v. Rubin, supra, the Court addressed whether several phrases – including "full-strength" – could be used for purposes of marketing beer. 514 U.S. at 481 (citing 27 C.F.R. § 7.29(f) (1994)). The use of such phrases in advertising was deemed to be even "more influential" than its use on product labels placed on products at the point of sale. Id. at 488. Likewise, the use of this phrase in the ballot title is intended to influence voters without regard for its contribution to substantive understanding of the initiative. Thus, it violates the prohibition on the inclusion of political catch phrases in ballot titles.

3.     The Board is inconsistent in using non-textual references in the titles.

The Board approved the use of the phrase "full-strength beer and wine" but does not provide the clarity needed to explain "food stores," other than to state the minimum percentage of food sales for such an entity to qualify for this status. If it was consistent in using non-textual descriptors, the Board would include in the 25% food sales clause, “which includes but is not limited to all grocery stores and most convenience stores.” Both types of stores qualify for a food store license, based on the express statements of the Proponents’ counsel during Title Board hearings on Initiatives #51 and #52. If the Board is, in fact, going to substantively deviate from the text of the measure, it should at least be consistent in doing so, as long as such non-textual references reflect the announced intent of the Proponents.

B. The phrase “allowing the ownership of multiple food store licenses, including by the owners of certain retail liquor licenses” is confusing and misleading.

A variety of licenses granted under the Colorado Liquor Code are referred to as “retail” establishments. For instance, brew pubs, distillery pubs, gaming taverns, liquor stores, and vintner’s restaurants are all “retail” operations as a matter of law. C.R.S. §§ 12-47-103(4) (“‘brew pub’ means a retail establishment....”), (7.3)(“‘distillery pub’ means a retail establishment....”), (31)(“‘Retail liquor store’ means an establishment....”), (39.5)(“‘vintner’s restaurant’ means a retail establishment....”); -414(“A retail gaming tavern license shall be issued to persons who are licensed pursuant to section 12-47.1-501(1)(c)....”). Yet, none of these “retail” licenses is covered by the provisions in this initiative.

Instead, this measure applies solely to multiple ownership interests in “retail businesses licensed pursuant to this section.” Proposed C.R.S. § 12-47-425(3). The vagueness of the title’s terminology by referring to “certain retail liquor licenses” does not communicate the specific exception for multiple ownership interests only by commonly owned operations such as Walmart, Costco, King Soopers, Safeway, 7-11, or any of a variety of oil company owned or other multi-outlet convenience stores.

C. The title fails to state that food store licensees must establish needs and desires of local inhabitants only if local licensing authorities require it.

Petitioning to determine whether a community wants the licensed premises to offer regulated products is the most commonly understood aspect of the liquor licensing process. To affected neighborhoods often sign petitions to indicate their support of or opposition to the proposed license. See, e.g., Kornfeld v. Yost, 519 P.2d 219, 220 (Colo. App. 1976) (1,300 signatures on petitions in favor of and opposed to license), rev’d on other grounds, 567 P.2d 383 (Colo. 1977); Bd. of Cty. Com’rs v. Whale, 154 Colo. 271, 272 (1964) (969 signatures on petitions in favor of and opposed to license); Schooley v. Steinberg, 365 P.2d 245, 246 (Colo. 1961) (1,210 signatures on petitions in favor and opposed to license).

Such a showing of the needs and desires of the neighborhood can be sufficient to make a prima facie case for the granting of a liquor license. Bd. of Cty. Com’rs of Adams Cty. v. Nat'l Tea Co., 367 P.2d 909, 910 (Colo. 1961) (granting of license was warranted where 1,230 residents, business owners, and employees of the neighborhood signed petitions in support of the license, as did 227 non-residents; one competitor opposed the license). Thus, the recognized legal impact of such a demonstration establishes that the ability of a local licensing authority to bypass such requirement is a central feature that must be addressed in the title.

Voters would likely be surprised to discover that a routine requirement for new licenses, applicable across the various categories of licenses to be granted, will become optional for this new class of license. Given the wide breadth of licensing activity (all grocery stores and all convenience stores are eligible licensees, as stated by proponents at the December 2, 2015 hearing), the significance of this change is statewide, affecting every neighborhood that has such a retail outlet in its midst. As a result, the citizens' voice in the licensing process could be silenced if permitted at the local level. Where a ballot initiative deprives citizens of the right to engage in a central democratic right such as the petitioning of government, it is certainly a notable aspect of the measure that requires voter awareness. See Evans v. Romer, 854 P.2d 1270, 1282 (Colo. 1993).

This conclusion is supported by the Supreme Court's decision on a comparable measure. There, where grocery stores were to operate under the same requirement for a demonstration of needs and wants of the neighborhood as applied to other liquor licensees, the ballot title stated that the new class of license was subject to those requirements. Table Wine in Grocery Stores, supra, 646 P.2d at 922. However, here, there is a deviation from those requirements, and the title is silent on the issue. That silence is error that can be corrected by a plain statement that food store licensees may not be required to make such showings, based on the decision of the local licensing authority.

D. The title fails to state that the measure sets a presumptive and conclusive test for a licensee's reputation/character/record if the applicant has an unexpired fermented malt beverage retailer license.

For the reasons stated above, the initiative creates a new – and lesser – standard for establishing a licensee's reputation, character, and record, namely by referring only to its existing fermented malt beverage retailer license and the absence of an administrative or criminal prosecution against the applicant. This change in the law deserves mention in the ballot title.

Currently, there is no such limitation in the law. C.R.S. § 12-47-307(1)(a)(II)-(V). The law requires that an applicant be "of good character and reputation satisfactory to the respective licensing authorities." Id. The ability of local officials to exercise discretion in determining whether to license persons who acquire and resell alcoholic beverages is an important element of current law. That discretion is eliminated by the provision in question. A title that informs voters that their licensing officials will be unable to make character and reputation assessments themselves is a central feature of the measure and should be disclosed in the titles.

For instance, the failure to be truthful in an application is sufficient reason for a licensing authority to deny a license on this ground. See Fueston v. City of Colo. Springs, 713 P.2d 1323, 1326 (Colo. App. 1985) (misstatements made to licensing officials in other states were adequate grounds for license denial); see also MacLarty v. Whitesford, 496 P.2d 1071, 1072-73 (Colo. App. 1972) (police chief made inquiries for licensing authority about applicant's character and reputation). The local authority's total inability to consider the veracity and licensing record of companies that seek licenses in various jurisdictions is central to this measure. The Board should correct the title to reflect this aspect of the measure.

E. The title should reflect the imposition of a fee for this license.

Where a new license is created, it is appropriate to inform voters of the fee associated with such license. Where the Supreme Court has rewritten ballot titles regarding licensed activities, it included specific reference to such fees and did so of its own accord. Dye v. Baker, 354 P.2d 498, 460-61 (Colo. 1960) (to titles for measure legalizing certain gambling activities and licensing in connection therewith, adding language about “fees for the licenses provided for and disposition of the fees realized from licensed operations”). The Board should follow the Court’s lead on this issue and add language to reflect the imposition of the fee on food store licensees.

F. The title’s reference to “annual gross income” in the definition of “food store” is incomplete and incorrect.

The title states that a food store is defined “as an establishment that earns at least 25% of its annual gross income from the sale of food.” The measure states that an establishment is a “food store” if it derives “a minimum of 25% of the gross annual income from its total sales, excluding fuel products as defined at section 8-20-201(2) and lottery ticket sales from such total.” Proposed C.R.S. § 12-47-103(8.5) (emphasis added). These statements are inconsistent and misleading.

The most recent industry statistics indicate that fuel sales account for 69.2% of convenience store income. Of the remaining 30.8% of sales, tobacco accounted for 35.9% and various forms of “food” accounted for 45.4%.<sup>1</sup>

Thus, once fuel sales are excluded, food sales are about 14% of convenience store gross revenue ( $30.8\% \times 45.4\% = 13.98\%$ ). However, the relatively minor nature of food sales to a convenience store (i.e., a potential food store licensee) is hidden from voters, due to the existing inaccurate wording of the title, which therefore must be corrected.

WHEREFORE, the titles set January 6, 2016 should be reversed or modified to account for the legal insufficiencies highlighted in this Motion for Rehearing.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED this 13th day of January, 2016.

AN EMPLOYEE OF A FOOD STORE LICENSED PURSUANT TO SECTION 12-47-425 SHALL NOT SELL MALT OR VINOUS LIQUORS UNLESS THE EMPLOYEE IS AT LEAST TWENTY-ONE YEARS OF AGE.

Rehearing of Proposed Initiatives

2015-2016 #60 "Food Store License"

2015-2016 #61 "Food Store License"

THE BOARD

Suzanne Staiert, Chair, Deputy Secretary of State
Sharon Eubanks, Office of Legislative Legal Services
David Blake, Deputy Attorney General

1 PROCEEDINGS

2 MS. STAIERT: Good morning. This is a
3 meeting of the Title Setting Board pursuant to 4 Article 40 of Title 1 C.R.S. The time is 9:07. The 5 date is Wednesday, January 20, 2016. We are meeting
6 in the Secretary of State's Aspen Room, 1700
7 Broadway, Denver, Colorado.

8                           The title setting board today consists of 9 myself, Suzanne Staiert, Deputy Secretary of State on 10 behalf of Wayne Williams; David Blake, Deputy 11 Attorney General on behalf of Attorney General 12 Cynthia Coffman; and Sharon Eubanks -- I have all the 13 wrong names here that's why -- the designee of 14 Director of Office of Legislative Legal Services, Dan 15 Cartin.

16 Today we are meeting to consider title 17 settings and rehearsals. There are two titles for 18 each measure. One is a statement and the other is a 19 statement in the form of a question. Changes adopted 20 by the Title Board to the first title in the staff 21 draft will be considered adopted for the other title.

22                          For anyone who wishes to testify, there 23                          is a sign-up sheet on the back table. This hearing 24                          is broadcast over the Internet from the Secretary of 25                          State's website. And public restrooms are located on 1 the floor.

2                   When the Title Board considers a proposed 3 initiative for the first time, the Board will follow
4 three steps. First, Board members may ask -- may 5 wish to ask questions of the proponents. This is to 6 ensure the Board understands the proposal.

7                   Second, the Board will determine if it 8 has jurisdiction to set a title. In particular the 9 Board must determine if the measure complies with the 10 single subject rule proscribed in Article V, Section 11 1 5.5 of the Colorado Constitution, and Section 12 1-40-1065 Colorado Revised Statutes. This is because 13 the Board is prohibited for setting a title for a 14 measure that contains more than one subject.

15                  Third, if the Board determines that it 16 has jurisdiction to set title, then the Board will 17 use a staff prepared draft for discussion purposes.
18 A copy of the staff draft is on the table.

19                  Generally we will take all testimony 20 first, and then the Board will discuss and vote after 21 all testimony has been completed. A decision is 22 reached by two of the three members of the Board.

23                  Please take note we are not concerned 24 with the merits of any proposal here. We are only 25 concerned with the setting of titles. Furthermore,

1       we are not concerned with any legal or constitutional 2       objections to the measures except to the extent that 3       such objections relate to the jurisdiction of the 4       Board to set titles or to the correctness of the 5       titles and summaries themselves. Anyone who is 6       dissatisfied with the decision of the Title Board may 7       file a motion for rehearing with the Secretary of 8       State within seven calendar days.

9                   In the interest of brevity, speakers may 10      incorporate remarks made on the record in prior 11      hearings on similar measures.

12                  The first item on the agenda today is 13      2015-2016 #60, Food Store License, and this is a 14      rehearing. If the proponents could come forward and 15      just state names for the record.

16                  MR. ROGERS: Trey Rogers on behalf of the 17      proponents Blake Harrison and Grayson Robinson, both 18      of whom are here and have previously completed their 19      affidavits. They did that at the time of the initial 20      hearing.

21                  MS. STAIERT: Okay. Thank you. And the 22      motion for rehearing was filed by Mr. Grueskin.

23                  You want to come forward and just 24      identify yourself for the record and then we'll...

25                  MR. GRUESKIN: Thank you, Madam Chair.

1        My name is Mark Grueskin, counsel for the objector 2        Jeanne McEvoy, registered elector of the State of 3        Colorado.

4                    MS. STAIERT: And is there anything you 5        want to add to your motion or any argument you want 6        to make?

7                    MR. GRUESKIN: There is. If I could just 8        turn to the (inaudible).

9                    Let me just first say that I may be a 10      little bit more exhaustive because I know that 11      Mr. Blake was not able to be part of the earlier 12      proceedings. And so I might -- I might just go 13      through what this measure does and what our motion 14      addresses.

15                  This measure creates a new category of 16      liquor license for grocery stores and convenience 17      stores, in essence, and any other entity that sells 18      at least 45 percent of its -- has 25 percent of its 19      gross sales from -- excluding fuel sales and lottery 20      tickets -- from food.

21                  The title that's been set -- and I know 22      that it is largely based on the title that was set 23      for 51 and 52 -- is still flawed even though the 24      Board made certain changes last time.

25                  First of all, it uses twice the phrase

1 full strength beer and wine. That's a phrase that 2 simply doesn't exist, not in the initiative. It 3 exists in the promotional materials of the proponents 4 as indicated on the exhibits attached to our motion.
5 It's even a phrase that the United States Supreme 6 Court has looked at as an extremely persuasive -- 7 excuse me -- highly influential advertising phrase.
8 But it doesn't exist in the initiative. It's 9 contrived. It's invented. It's created. And,
10 honestly, I would -- I would be hard-pressed, and I 11 would guess the Board would be hard-pressed to define 12 what full strength beer and wine means. And to the 13 extent that that's true, it is a phrase that has been 14 created for purposes of voter appeal as opposed to 15 voter understanding and that is contrary to the 16 Board's direction and the statutes in terms of 17 reflecting the measure in the title.

18 And so we would suggest to you not only 19 is it an invented phrase that doesn't even exist and 20 is beyond definition; it is beyond legal definition.
21 It is a catchphrase because of its demonstrated use 22 in the political campaign.

23 Of course, if the Board decides that 24 nontextual references are appropriate, well, 25 honestly, I think you've opened the proverbial

1     Pandora's box, and you will have every proponent
2     telling you what their measure -- the technical parts 3     and even the nontechnical parts of their measure mean
4     and how best to phrase them. And I think that is a 5     path you do not want to go down. If you do want to 6     go down that, well, then, it seems to me you probably 7     want to make sure that people know that all 8     convenience, virtually all convenience stores and all 9     grocery stores are going to be eligible for these 10    kinds of licenses.

11               That is an expanded form of the argument 12    that we made on 51 and 52. That one wasn't as 13    compelling as it needed to be, but I still believe 14    that the use of this phrase is -- is error on the 15    part of the Board.

16               Second --

17               MS. STAIERT: What would your suggestion 18    be? To go back to the malt and vinous liquors or...

19               MR. GRUESKIN: It's the text. It's the 20    text of the statute, and it's the text of the 21    amendment and, therefore, it is the -- it is the 22    measure. So, yes, that -- that would be my proposal.

23               Secondly, the change made by the Board on 24    51 and 52 relating to the provision allowing the 25    ownership of multiple food store licenses, including

1 by the owners of certain retail liquor licenses, is 2 misleading. There are so many forms of retail liquor
3 licenses as we point out in the motion. This measure 4 is very clear that the multiple ownership is a 5 function of this type of license, the food store
6 license. The measure itself talks about the retail 7 businesses licensed pursuant to this section. And so 8 to be vague when you can be clear seems to me to be a 9 concession that you do not need to make, and I would 10 suggest it is error not to -- to hold out to voters 11 that their types of retail licenses may be affected, 12 when, in fact, they're not.

13 MS. EUBANKS: Mr. Grueskin, if I could 14 ask a question regarding this argument. I guess I'm 15 a little confused because the -- the terminology in 16 the measure talks about the license pursuant to this 17 section versus licenses pursuant to the article, 18 and -- and I think that the reference to the owners 19 of certain retail liquor licenses was supposed to be 20 trying to encompass under the article in terms of 21 those -- those folks could also have now multiple 22 ownership of licenses under the article. I mean, 23 that's my understanding. It's not just that you have 24 one company that has a food store license that then 25 has another food store license for another location.

1       It was my understanding that also that current 2       licensees under the liquor code could also have an 3       interest in a food store license. Am I 4       misunderstanding?

5                    MR. GRUESKIN: Well, I guess Mr. Rogers 6       will probably clear this up. I did not read the 7       language that way. I read it simply to allow for the 8       Section 425 which relates to food store licenses. So 9       that was my understanding. But I -- but maybe we 10      ought to wait and see what the proponents have to say 11      but -- but it was my understanding that the 12      section --

13                  MS. EUBANKS: This food store license.

14                  MR. GRUESKIN: Exactly. Food store
15      license section.

16                  MS. EUBANKS: And I don't know whether 17      Mr. Rogers wants to come up now or address it.

18                  MR. ROGERS: Thank you, Ms. Eubanks.

19                  There is -- anyone can own as many food 20      store licenses as they wish to own under this 21      measure. The provision that we're talking about is 22      simply intended to provide that even the owner of a 23      liquor license drug store license or a retail liquor 24      license may also own as many food store licenses as 25      they would like.

1                   Article 47, and in particular those two 2       subparts of Article 47 provide that currently owners
3       of liquor licenses, drug store licenses, and owners 4       of retail liquor licenses may only own that single 5       license and may own no other license within Article 6       47.

7                   So the title is correct and is not 8       misleading. It simply points out that it allows 9       multiple ownership, including for certain retail 10      license holders. In fact, the only two retail 11      license holders that would under current law be 12      prohibited from owning food store licenses are those 13      two. So this listing in Mr. Grueskin's motion of all 14      the other types of retail licenses that exist is 15      really a red herring. Those licensees can own as 16      many food store licenses as they like, whether or not 17      we have the 18      not-withstanding-any-other-provision-of-Article 47
19      language. Does that answer your question?

20                  MS. EUBANKS: And so, for example, you 21      have a retail liquor store licensee could under the 22      measure now also own a food store license?

23                  MR. ROGERS: Correct. As the title -- as 24      the title points out.

25                  MS. EUBANKS: Okay.

1                   MR. ROGERS: Yeah.

2                   MS. EUBANKS: Thank you.

3                   MR. ROGERS: Yeah.

4                   MR. GRUESKIN: Then to Mr. Rogers' point, 5 if it is clear that there are only two forms of 6 licensees that -- in addition to food store licensees 7 that can have this multiple ownership, the title
8 ought to be specific about those kinds of licenses 9 rather than leaving the language vague as to certain 10 retail licensees.

11                  Third, this measure takes out of the 12 current licensing mandate that there be an 13 establishment of the needs and desires of local 14 inhabitants before the license is granted and makes 15 it optional. That is a major change. As most people 16 perceive the licensing process, that is a major 17 change. Typically neighbors get to say via petitions 18 and hearing whether or not they support a particular 19 license, to omit this category of license, which 20 frankly will be the most pervasive type of licensee, 21 licensees because there will be convenience -- 22 thousands of convenience stores and -- and grocery 23 stores, seems to me to be to underserve the voters 24 who are going to rely on this ballot title and, 25 therefore, it seems to be a -- it is an error on the

1 part of the Board not to include a reference to the 2 fact that it is optional at the local level as to 3 whether or not needs and desires have to be 4 established.

5                         Likewise in our -- our motion addresses 6 it, this measure treats as a presumptive and 7 conclusive test, the lack of an administrative or 8 criminal proceeding as evidence of character and 9 reputation. That is a new, dramatically new 10 standard, and it is certainly not one, no matter what 11 other civil litigation may exist, for instance, the 12 establishment of that standard is noteworthy and 13 ought to be part of the title.

14                         We've indicated a fifth, that the 15 Supreme Court has formally written titles that 16 require disclosure of a fee. We believe that is also 17 required here.

18                         And, lastly, an argument that was not 19 raised in terms of 51 or 52, this issue of how the 20 Board did change the 51 and 52 title to include the 21 reference to 25 percent of annual income to help make 22 it clear what a food store is. However, food sales 23 are a minimal, relatively minimal part of what 24 happens at a convenience store and all of what this 25 definition says is if you take most of the revenue

1 out of a convenience store revenue assessment, 25 2 percent of what's left is the minimum amount that has 3 to be met. And as we indicated based upon current 4 statistics, that really means that in the overall 5 context it's -- and I think my wording was not fully 6 accurate in the next to last paragraph, but in the 7 overall context it's about 14 percent of sales. It's 8 not 25 percent of sales. Because you have to exclude 9 all those other dollars from the other revenue 10 sources, and we think that in order to make that 11 phrase clear you have to include the phrase that 12 comes from the initiative itself, so that it's clear 13 that it's not just 25 percent of the overall sales, 14 but it's 25 percent of maybe 40 percent of -- excuse 15 me -- 30 percent of the overall sales of one of these 16 entities.

17 I don't have anything further, and 18 hopefully my motion for rehearing was thorough enough 19 that you don't have questions. But if I'm wrong and 20 you do, I'm happy to answer them.

21 MS. STAIERT: Do you have any questions?
22 Okay.

23 Mr. Rogers, if you want to respond.

24 MR. ROGERS: I do. Thank you.

25 So first and primarily for the record

1 and for Mr. Blake's benefit, 60 and 61 differ from 2 proposed Initiatives 51 and 52, that the Board 3 previously considered and for which the Board also 4 considered a re -- a motion for rehearing filed by 5 the same objector, represented by the same counsel.

6 The Board listened to most, if not all, of the 7 arguments presented in the motion for rehearing and 8 dealt with those, either rejected them or made 9 changes to the title as the Board saw appropriate.

10 Now, to be sure, 60 and 61 are new 11 measures, and the objectors have the right to come 12 and argue the points made in the motion.

13 Again, I simply point out that we're 14 largely doing this exercise again for a couple of 15 reasons. First, I'm going to try to, as Mr. Grueskin 16 did, keep my remarks fairly short.

17 You've heard again -- Mr. Blake, with 18 the exception of you, you've heard most of these 19 arguments before. The second reason I mention it is 20 that I would ask the Board, the Chair to incorporate 21 the argument on 50 and -- sorry -- 51 and 52 and the 22 rehearing on those proposed initiatives in the record 23 for these measures.

24 Let me address, then, quickly, if I
25 could, the arguments Mr. Grueskin has made this

1 morning.

2                   With regard to the phrase full strength 3 beer and wine, I'd like to note first that this is 4 not something that was concocted by the proponents.
5 In the staff draft on 60 and 61 and in fact on 51 and 6 52, the phrase full strength beer and wine was used.
7 So it's not our invention. And, in fact, it's not 8 really even the staff's invention. It is common 9 parlance. The alternative, as you heard
10 Mr. Grueskin suggest, is that we use the terms 11 exclusively vinous liquor and malt liquor. The 12 problem there is the public is -- is certainly going 13 to be confused by the use of those terms if they are 14 used exclusively. They are arcane, technical terms 15 that are beyond the -- the understanding of the 16 voter.

17                  A little case law on this. The -- the 18 task of the Title Board according to the Supreme 19 Court is to enable the electorate, who is familiar or 20 unfamiliar with the subject matter of a particular 21 proposal, to determine intelligently to support or 22 oppose. How? The Supreme Court goes on to say "by 23 setting a title that correctly and fairly expresses 24 the true intent and meaning of the initiative."

25                  You know these standards well. That

1 particular quote, those quotes are from In Re Title
2 for 2009-10 #45, that's Colorado Supreme Court 2010.

3                   In another case the Court expressly 4 said, quote, that the Board -- sorry -- that the 5 Board may, quote, use terms in the common 6 understanding of most voters, close quote. That was 7 In Re Title on Taxation 3, Colorado Supreme Court 8 1992.

9                   That's exactly what you've done here in 10 setting the titles for 60 and 61. You've used terms, 11 full strength beer and wine, that are within the 12 common parlance, as opposed to words like vinous 13 liquor and malt liquor which simply are not.

14                  A second point on this, it is true that 15 vinous liquor and malt liquor are the terms used -- 16 in the statute. The reason those are the terms used 17 or used in the statute and the initiative. The 18 reason those are used in the initiative is that the 19 proponents chose to amend the existing statute. They 20 chose to drop this new license into the existing 21 Article 47, which deals with liquor licenses in 22 Colorado. We did that because that's good drafting 23 because it enables us to have a holistic -- one 24 article that holistically addresses liquor licenses
25 in the state of Colorado.

1                   If you accept Mr. Grueskin's argument, 2     you would create a perverse incentive. You create an 3     incentive for proponents to define their own terms.
4     We certainly could have done that. We could have 5     drafted this measure to regulate the sale of full 6     strength beer and wine in food stores, and we could 7     have defined those terms, and we could have done 8     it -- could have done it outside of Article 46 and 9     47. We chose not to do so.

10                  We shouldn't be penalized for making 11     good drafting decisions and -- and drafting our 12     measure in a way that makes sense and works within 13     the existing statutory framework.

14                  Now, finally, on 60 -- sorry -- 15     finally, on full strength beer and wine, to use the 16     terms vinous and malt liquor would instead be 17     confusing to the voter. Both of those terms include 18     the phrase liquor, and they would tend to lead the 19     voter to conclude that this measure allows the sale 20     of what in common parlance is known as liquor, that 21     is spiritus liquor, that's your whiskeys and your 22     gins and your vodkas. That is the impression that 23     the use of only the terms vinous and malt liquors 24     would create in the minds of the voters.

25                  So the title you have set is --

1 complies with the Supreme Court case law, and it 2 accurately communicates to the voters what this 3 measure would do.

4 Let me go on to Mr. Grueskin's next 5 point, which is that the changes made at the initial 6 hearing regarding ownership by certain retail liquor 7 licensees is misleading. I think I addressed this 8 in -- for the most part in my comments earlier, but, 9 again, I think -- I think you got it right at the 10 initial hearing. There are only two retail liquor 11 licenses that are affected. We don't need to list 12 them out. To list them out would get down to a level 13 of detail that is simply not required. This -- 14 this -- the fact that the initiative would allow the 15 owners of liquor license drug stores and retail 16 liquor license -- retail liquor stores to own food 17 stores is simply not a central feature of the 18 measure, and it need not be further described in the 19 title, certainly no further than it is already 20 described in the title that's been set.

21 Let me go on to the exclusion of the 22 provision of the measure that requires a needs and 23 desires hearing.

24 So, first, the -- it is not an 25 exclusion, it is not a removal of the needs and

1      desires hearing, first. It leaves that decision to 2      local authorities.

3                         Second, that provision only applies to 4      existing 3.2 license holders. Those existing 3.2 5      license holders have already been through a local 6      needs and desires hearing at the time that they 7      obtained their Article 46, 3.2 liquor license. So 8      all that the measure is saying here is that for this 9      1500 or so license holders in the State of Colorado 10     who have already been through a needs and desires 11     hearing, if the local authorities choose to not make 12     them go through that a second time, that's okay. And 13     I think that you will see when you consider the 14     provision in that context, this is, again, merely a 15     detail and does not need to be included in the title, 16     lengthening it, adding to voter confusion, and really 17     moving away from the central features of the measure 18     to a detail.

19                         Same arguments apply to the -- the 20     permitted presumption -- again, the permitted 21     presumption that an existing 3.2 license holders 22     meets other requirements for a liquor license.
23     Again, it only applies to the existing 3.2 license
24     holders. Those 3.2 license holders have already met 25     the requirements that we're discussing today. And so

1       the measure simply says if the local authority wishes 2       to not make those 3.2 license holders go through the 3       process a second time, they can do that. So, again, 4       this is a detail. This is not a central feature of 5       the measure and need not be included in the title.

6                   MS. STAIERT: So I guess I haven't done 7       a lot of 3.2 licenses. I just don't remember those 8       going through the needs and desires, but that's part 9       of the statutory structure now? That's what you're 10      saying?

11                  MR. ROGERS: Yes.

12                  MS. STAIERT: Okay. So a convenience 13      store that has a 3.2 license is required under 14      current code to do a needs and desires?

15                  MR. ROGERS: I certainly believe that's 16      the case. I can --

17                  MS. STAIERT: Maybe when we take a 18      break, you could just -- you could get me a cite 19      because I just don't personally remember that 20      happening, and it may be when I did licensing 21      authorities those were handled administratively or 22      something, but I just don't recall that. So I'd just 23      like it for the record.

24                  MR. ROGERS: We'll take a look at that 25      and -- and get you a cite.

1 MS. STAIERT: Thanks.

2 MR. ROGERS: Mr. Grueskin next
3 mentioned that we should include the fact that we're 4 imposing a fee. The case law is pretty clear on 5 this, that the creation of a fee need not -- it's not 6 a central feature. It need not be included in the 7 title. Every type of retail license under -- every 8 type of license, wholesale, retail, importer, 9 manufacturer, includes a fee. That there would 10 certainly be no voter surprise to learn that in 11 addition to the dozens of other types of licenses
12 granted under Article 47 this one also includes a 13 nominal fee. I think 100 to $150 fee. It is a 14 detail. I'm sure the proponents would like to see, 15 you know, every measure of this title included so 16 that instead of having a nine-line title we have a 17 20-line title, thus confusing and -- confusing the 18 voters. It's just not necessary under the -- under 19 the case law, under the standards that this Board 20 applies when setting title.

21 Finally, objectors suggested that the 22 change to the language around food stores remains 23 misleading. Well, you know, the request in the 24 first -- in the motion for rehearing on 51 and 52 was 25 that the percentage of food sales should be included.

1     And the Board did that. And now the objectors have 2     come back to say, well, despite the fact that that's 3     what we asked for it didn't go far enough. You need 4     to now include more details about what a food store 5     is.

6                         I would submit that you've done enough.
7     You've told the voter in the title that a food store
8     is one that gets 25 percent of its annual revenue -- 9     annual gross revenue from the sale of food. Are 10    there exclusions? Yes, there are exclusions. Those 11    are in the measure. If the voter isn't satisfied 12    with the language in the title, with the information 13    provided in the title, the voter can certainly go and 14    parse -- parse it out a little more finely by reading 15    the measure itself. But with regard to the title 16    you've set, it is sufficient. You did what the 17    objectors asked you to do on 50 and 51. No further 18    kind of language around what a food store is is 19    necessary.

20                         Unless you've got questions, that's 21    all.

22                         MS. STAERT: Any questions?

23                         Do you want to add anything,

24    Mr. Grueskin?

25                         MR. GRUESKIN: Mark Grueskin.

1                         First, as a general matter, I take 2                         umbrage at the suggestion that the goal of this 3                         motion or that the goal of the motion on 51 and 52 4                         was to confuse voters. Obviously the Board found 5                         merit in a number of the things that were suggested.
6                         As the Board knows, I wasn't able to attend the last 7                         hearing, and I would have asked for additional 8                         clarity had I been here, but nonetheless the purpose 9                         here and I think it was very particularly as to the 10                         imposition of the fee is to create a 20-line title.
11                         Well, let's see, if you inserted a phrase imposes a 12                         fee upon food store licensees, I don't know that you 13                         get to 20 lines. And I -- and I raise that in a 14                         somewhat sarcastic manner because I think that the 15                         point isn't of this motion to do anything other than 16                         to contribute to voter understanding.

17                         Two quick -- two quick points. First, 18                         full strength beer and wine, I'm not sure I -- I can 19                         add a lot to what we have said except for the fact 20                         that the -- the use of full strength beer and wine 21                         was raised as a phrase in the legislative review and 22                         comment hearing. If that's where staff got it from, 23                         that's very possible.

24                         But at no point have the proponents of 25                         this initiative actually tried to define what "full

1 strength" means. And it is a term that is left open 2 to public interpretation. We are not trying to 3 penalize them for their drafting processes. That was 4 then. This is now. We simply want the title to be 5 reflective of the initiative.

6                   The only other issue that I would raise 7 for you at this point relates to the very last issue
8 addressed. We do -- we do believe that the added 9 detail about what -- how the annual gross income is 10 calculated is helpful. There's no suggestion on the 11 part of the proponents that our numbers are wrong or 12 that the industry studies cited are incorrect. The 13 point is these are called food stores again for, I 14 guess, drafting convenience. But they're really 15 not -- if you sell 14 percent of everything that you 16 put out for sale and you call yourself a food store, 17 it -- it is at least something that ought to be known 18 to voters so that they don't believe that this is 19 simply a super market sweeps kind of measure.

20                   Thank you very much.

21                   MS. STAIERT: Thank you.

22                   Mr. Grueskin, I just wanted to clarify.
23 I think at the last rehearing you had raised single 24 subject, but you didn't this time. And I just wanted 25 to make sure that you're not intending to.

1 MR. GRUESKIN: We did as to #52.

2 MS. STAIERT: Okay.

3 MR. GRUESKIN: And we are as to #61.

4 MS. STAIERT: Okay.

5 MR. GRUESKIN: But we're not raising it
6 here.

7 MS. STAIERT: But not in this one.

8 MR. GRUESKIN: Correct.

9 MS. STAIERT: All right. Thank you.

10 MR. ROGERS: If I could, Madam Chair, 11 you asked for information about whether needs and 12 desires is required for 3.2. Let me give you a 13 couple of cites on that.

14 MS. STAIERT: Okay.

15 MR. ROGERS: So 12-46-104(1)(c) 16 provides that a retail -- "retailers license shall be 17 granted and issued to any person, partnership, 18 association, organization or corporation qualifying 19 under Section 12-47-301," and then goes on. 301 is 20 the then the provision of -- 12-47-301 is the 21 provision that requires a wants and desires or needs 22 and desires hearing for an Article 47 liquor license.
23 So, yes, the same needs and desires process required 24 for a liquor license is also required for a 3.2
25 license.

1                   MS. STAIERT: Okay. And just so I can 2 clarify it. I think my -- my position. So I guess 3 that on the ones that exist, but theoretically there 4 could also be new food stores that come in, didn't go 5 through needs and desires because it's new 6 construction or whatever, and they could obtain one 7 without doing needs and desires?

8                   MR. ROGERS: No. The -- the exclusion 9 from needs and desires and the presumption that 10 they've met the other requirements is only available 11 to existing 3.2 licensees.

12                  MS. STAIERT: Okay. All right.
13 Perfect. Thank you.

14                  MS. MADSEN: And if the Board would 15 allow me, this is Shayne Madsen. I'm the attorney 16 for Coloradans for Convenience. First time that 17 we've appeared before this Board. But we are -- my 18 clients are a coalition of convenience store owners 19 which are primarily individual business owners 20 integral to their communities.

21                  I wanted to make two quick points.
22 First, we are -- we have been part of the drafting 23 process since the beginning. We do support all of 24 Mr. Rogers' arguments before the Board.

25                  I would just point out two things.

1       First, the insistence of Mr. Grueskin on using malt
2       and vinous liquor is really an attempt to use 3       prohibition-era terminology in what is hopefully a 4       modern-day proposal.

5                     And, secondly, my clients are quite 6       troubled by what we see as invented numbers in the 7       motion for rehearing. We're in the business of being 8       convenience stores, and all of a sudden Mr. Grueskin 9       is citing what he purports to represent as industry
10      figures. I think those are fairly in dispute here 11      and should not be considered by the Title Board 12      unless you want to turn your consideration into an 13      evidentiary hearing, in which case we're happy to 14      bring forth the actual facts.

15                  And just to underscore Mr. Trey -- 16      Mr. Rogers' last statement, Article 46 which is the 17      3.2 licensing article does require a needs and 18      desires hearing for a new 3.2 licensee and a second 19      needs and desires hearing in the context of this 20      initiative when converting to the new food store 21      license doesn't need to be mandatory. It needs to be 22      permissive on -- on the side of the local licensing 23      authority.

24                  So if you have any questions, we'd be 25      happy to answer them here. But we stand in support

1 of Initiative 60.

2 MS. STAIERT: Okay. Thank you. Any 3 questions for the... All right.

4 Is there discussion by the Board? Do
5 you want to incorporate your comments from last time 6 or do you want to make them anew?

7 MS. EUBANKS: I think I can just do it 8 sort of anew.

9 MS. STAIERT: Okay.

10 MS. EUBANKS: Very briefly. I don't 11 think my position is a surprise to anyone.

12 I do agree with Mr. Grueskin's first 13 argument about the terminology used. I think that 14 the terminology should follow the statutes. I still 15 think that it can be -- the title can be drafted in a 16 way that it still explains to the voters in terms of 17 the type of beer and wine that is at issue with the 18 measure. But I do think that the terminology should 19 track the statutory terminology. I'm afraid that the 20 full strength beer and wine terminology is a 21 catchphrase in terms of trying to elicit a favorable 22 response, full strength being something better than 23 less than full strength and also in terms of 24 potentially being used as an advertising slogan in a 25 campaign. So that's my position on -- on that

1 argument.

2                   The only other argument that I would 3 agree with in Mr. Grueskin's motion for rehearing is 4 the argument, the last argument under F in terms of 5 the description of the income that's used in the 6 calculation of whether someone qualifies as a food
7 store licensee. I do think regardless of the numbers
8 that's really not important to me. For whatever 9 reason, the measure itself excludes the income from 10 fuel products and lottery ticket sales, and I think 11 that that should be indicated in the title.

12                  MS. STAIERT: Okay. While we had a lot 13 of discussion at the last couple of hearings about 14 the term full strength beer and wine, and I guess 15 I'm -- I'm pretty much with Mr. Rogers on the notion 16 that if our goal is to track the initiative rather 17 than to use terms of -- of common meaning, then what 18 we essentially force proponents into is rewriting, 19 you know, the liquor code into a new title. And so, 20 you know, if Mr. Rogers could have solved that 21 problem by just, you know, pulling all of his stuff 22 out and putting it in a different article and calling 23 it beer and wine, would we be having this discussion?

24                  And that's kind of what resonates with 25 me is that we're trying to use terms of common

1 meaning. And I think I agree that if we track the 2 language that's in the statute, it's going to be 3 confusing to the voters who don't know what malt and 4 vinous means. They don't distinguish it from 5 spirits, and so I don't know how else to describe it 6 in a -- in a common way. I think at some point we 7 have to refer to beer and wine.

8 So even if we said concerning the sale 9 of full strength malt and vinous liquors, then in the 10 next line we'd still have to say commonly referred to 11 as beer and wine or we'd be confusing the voters.

12 So I don't really have a problem 13 keeping it the way that it is because I think they're 14 terms of common meaning. I don't think they're 15 catchphrases because I don't think they elicit 16 necessarily a reaction one way or another. They're 17 just things. It's not like we're saying they're good 18 things or bad things. People have different feelings 19 about full strength alcohol. So I'm -- I'm 20 comfortable with that.

21 On the -- on the issue of allowing the 22 multiple food store licenses, I think that we 23 adequately covered that.

24 The needs and desires, I don't see that 25 as a major issue given that, one, it's not -- it's

1 not something that they removed. It's a consequence
2 of what exists now and what will exist later, but I 3 don't think it's this Board's duty to describe every 4 change that occurs from current law, and I think it 5 was adequately explained by the proponents that, in 6 fact, this isn't even a major procedural change as 7 all those groups will have already gone through that.

8                   The reputation, character record, I don't 9 think that's central to the measure.

10                  And the imposition of a license fee, I 11 also don't think that that's central. I think 12 imposition of license fees become central to measures 13 when the license fee is then going to be dedicated to 14 a certain fund or it's really part of the purpose, 15 and this is just a fee that is not central. Just 16 everything has a fee attached to it.

17                  Annual gross income, I mean, I'm fine
18 adding those, you know, couple of things in there. I 19 mean, as to any argument that, you know, we may or 20 may not be trying to avoid a 20-line measure, I don't 21 think lines have ever mattered much or Amendment 66 22 would have never looked the way it did. I think the 23 Board is trying to capture everything that's central.
24 And so, you know, I don't really consider the line 25 one way or the other, but I am fine with this other

1 inclusion in F so...

2 MR. BLAKE: So I'll make the record since 3 I wasn't here before. I think I agree with most of 4 what the Chair has discussed.

5 The most sympathetic argument or the 6 argument that I'm most sympathetic to is regarding 7 the catchphrase, but I think I disagree. But for the 8 record let me explain why.

9 The argument in the rehearing, by the 10 way, just also for the record, I'm up here looking at 11 case law. And I'm not up here playing -- playing 12 games or something.

13 That there's no specific meaning. I
14 mean, I think, of course, there is a specific meaning 15 that comes along with it. It conveys generally the 16 purpose or I don't think we'd be having this 17 discussion if it was really that amorphous.

18 As to the second argument -- or let me 19 jump to the third argument. The Board is 20 inconsistent in using nontextual references to the 21 title. I don't think it has to come out of the 22 proposal. I think as a general matter we do try to 23 adhere to that because it's the safest route, but I 24 don't think we've ever held ourselves to that 25 absolute standard. I certainly had not. So, again,

1 I think that's a good best practice, I don't think 2 it's a requirement.

3 As to the second argument that it's 4 political catchphrase, again, this is the one where 5 I'm most sympathetic, but as to the arguments here 6 relating to whether or not this is a campaign slogan, 7 it doesn't have to be exclusive. I think you can 8 certainly use words out of the title for a campaign.
9 The question about whether or not it's a catchphrase 10 is really whether or not it's prejudicial or it 11 invokes some kind of reaction or it generates some 12 kind of favoritism to one side or the other. I 13 simply don't think that it does.

14 At least one of the cases that I was 15 most familiar with, and I'm going to quote In Re
16 Ballot Title 2013-14, Nos. 85, 86, 87 where it says 17 it checks the language of the text of the proposed 18 initiative -- I've already discussed why I don't 19 think that's a requirement -- it is merely 20 descriptive, and it neither evokes emotion nor 21 engenders voter confusion. And I think that's the 22 standard that I want to apply to this. So I think it 23 satisfies the fact that it is not a catchphrase. So 24 I think I made the record on the one argument that I 25 was most persuaded by. But I can't agree.

1                   MS. STAIERT: Do you have any opinion
2     on the adding in the excluding lottery and gas?

3                   MR. BLAKE: I don't -- I don't think 4     that it's necessary. Clarity is always helpful, but 5     I don't think it's necessary.

6                   MS. STAIERT: You want to put it in?

7                   MS. EUBANKS: Sure.

8                   MS. STAIERT: At least in terms of what 9     it would look like.

10                  MS. EUBANKS: Sure. So I believe on 11     line 5 after "income" you want to insert a comma and 12     say something along the lines of excluding fuel 13     product and lottery ticket sales, comma. I mean, we 14     can put it in terms of excluding income from if you 15     think that's helpful, but that pretty much, I think, 16     tracks the way it's described in the measure.

17                  So I would move this language as 18     adopting the motion for rehearing in regard to the 19     argument set forth in F, 2F.

20                  MS. STAIERT: I'll second it.

21                  All those in favor?

22                  (The Board voted.)

23                  MS. STAIERT: It passes unanimously.

24                  So you're going to need to make the 25     motion on the rehearing because or -- you're fine

1 adopting this.

2 MS. EUBANKS: I don't...

3 MS. STAIERT: It's not enough for you 4 to vote no.

5 MS. EUBANKS: No.

6 MS. STAIERT: I figured that.

7 MS. EUBANKS: I don't think I'm going 8 to win over either of you --

9 MS. STAIERT: Okay.

10 MS. EUBANKS: -- on the argument in A.

11 And so if you're ready to -- unless there's any other 12 changes that you wish to make, then make a motion 13 (inaudible).

14 I would move that we deny the motion
15 for rehearing on Initiative 15-16 #60 in all regards
16 except for the argument F that we already took action 17 on, and in that regard we grant the motion for 18 rehearing.

19 MR. BLAKE: I'll second.

20 MS. STAIERT: All those in favor?

21 (The Board voted.)

22 MS. STAIERT: That takes us to the 23 rehearing on Initiative 2015-2016 #61 Food Store
24 License.

25 MR. ROGERS: Madam Chair, Trey Rogers

1 representing the proponents Grayson Robinson and 2 Blake Harrison, both of whom are here and have 3 previously executed their affidavits.

4 MS. STAIERT: All right. Thank you.

5 Mr. Grueskin.

6 MR. GRUESKIN: Mark Grueskin on behalf 7 of the objector.

8 Madam Chair and Members, the motion for 9 rehearing on 61 is the same as the motion for 10 rehearing on 60 with the exception of the single 11 subject argument produced on pages 1 and 2.
12 Basically -- sorry.

13 MS. STAIERT: So for the record, we'll 14 go ahead and incorporate the arguments made in the 15 prior on 60, and then if you want to just talk about 16 single subject, that will save your voice.

17 MR. GRUESKIN: You anticipated my next 18 comment, which is probably frightening for you.

19 But the -- the concern on 61 is that it
20 seeks -- it doesn't seek a change to the Colorado 21 Revised Statutes. It seeks multiple changes. Number 22 one, to create this grocery store, convenience store 23 liquor license category and, secondly, basically to 24 do away with the 3.2 off-premises license altogether, 25 which is the line that you see on -- or the verbiage

1       that you see on line 10 that states and I quote, 2       eliminating licenses to sell 3.2 percent beer for 3       off-premises consumption.

4                   Those are different changes, and they 5       achieve different things, and you could do them 6       separately, and you could find, I think, 7       constituencies for doing each of them, but that 8       doesn't mean that those constituencies are the same.

9                   We think that there is -- without 10      running you through our motion -- no necessary and 11      direct connection between them and, therefore, we 12      think that -- again, without running you through our 13      motion, just that the press has even treated it -- 14      these two issues differently. In announcing the 15      measure, one major outlet talked about grocery 16      stores, and one major outlet talked about 3.2 beer.

17                  To the extent that the popular 18      perception generated, at least by the media so far, 19      is that they are two different issues, we think that 20      that is correct. And we think that you should allow 21      the proponents to do this in two separate measures 22      and would ask that you find that there are multiple 23      subjects. Thank you.

24                  MS. STAERT: Thank you. Any 25      questions?

1                   MS. EUBANKS: Mr. Grueskin, I just -- 2       clarification. My understanding of the measure, it 3       just gets rid of the license for 3.2 beer for 4       off-premises consumption.

5                   MR. GRUESKIN: Right.

6                   MS. EUBANKS: So other types of 7       establishments that maybe served 3.2 beer on 8       premises --

9                   MR. GRUESKIN: A bar, a restaurant.

10                  MS. EUBANKS: Right. That they -- that 11      those still exist.

12                  MR. GRUESKIN: That's correct. I think 13      your line 10 is an accurate statement of what it -- 14      of what this measure does.

15                  MS. EUBANKS: Okay. Thank you.

16                  MR. GRUESKIN: Thank you very much, 17      ma'am.

18                  MS. STAIERT: Mr. Rogers, do you want 19      to respond?

20                  MR. ROGERS: Madam Chair, you've 21      already, I believe, incorporated the previous 22      arguments from 52 here, and so with that I'll just 23      add a few comments.

24                  Of course the single subject 25      requirement that the Supreme Court tells us must be

1      liberally construed to provide access to the ballot, 2      also we have to look at what the Supreme Court is -- 3      has told us are the purposes behind the single 4      subject requirement, to avoid voter surprise and 5      fraud; that that's not a problem here. The title 6      very clearly tells the voter that there would be this 7      3.2 repeal as part of the measure.

8                 The Supreme Court has also told us that 9      a purpose for the single subject requirement is to 10     avoid piggybacking. This is not piggybacking. The 11     repeal of the 3.2 off-premises licenses is properly 12     and necessarily connected to the goal of selling full 13     strength beer and wine in food stores. You can't 14     have two licenses at one premise. So you could not 15     sell under current law or the under the measure. You 16     couldn't have two licenses. So if a store is going 17     to avail itself of the opportunity to sell full 18     strength beer and wine, it necessarily has to give up 19     the 3.2 -- the 3.2 license.

20                So for those reasons we think, again, 21      that you got it right the first time. There is only 22      a single subject for initiative -- proposed 23      Initiative 61. Thanks.

24                MS. EUBANKS: Ask one question. I 25      think I asked you this back on 51 or --

1 MR. ROGERS: 52.

2 MS. EUBANKS: 52.

3 MR. ROGERS: Yeah.

4 MS. EUBANKS: Yeah. That while many or 5 some 3.2 licensees now would -- could roll over as 6 food store, there could potentially be 3.2 licensees
7 that don't qualify as a food store that this measure 8 would eliminate their ability to sell 3.2 beer for 9 off-premises consumption? Is that correct?

10 MR. ROGERS: That is possible. I think 11 the number would be vanishingly small, you know, out 12 of a universe of 1500. Again, I think my answer last 13 time was maybe single digit number of stores which 14 is -- which is we think just not enough to create an 15 entirely new subject. It's -- it's simply not the 16 intent of this measure to -- to take away the 17 opportunity to sell 3.2 from those handful of stores.
18 This is part of the larger scheme that the initiative 19 is undertaking and that is to authorize the sale of 20 full strength beer and wine in food stores.

21 MS. STAIERT: Do you have something,
22 Mr. Grueskin?

23 MR. GRUESKIN: I do.

24 You know, it's ironic in the 25 conversation over #60 that Mr. Rogers correctly

1 pointed out that the exceptions, the licensing
2 exceptions for entities currently with 3.2 licenses
3 are liberalized. If you currently have a 3.2 4 license, you don't have to -- unless the local 5 licensing authority requires it -- go through another 6 needs and desires test even though they're different 7 products. I mean -- and that's the point. And to 8 the extent that the suggestion is is that, well, you 9 wouldn't want -- you wouldn't want to have two 10 licenses, well, that's -- of course that's true.
11 They're going to give up one license for the other 12 license. That doesn't mean that you have to abolish 13 that license for any other entity that would seek to 14 have it. But they are both using the 3.2 license 15 conundrum of -- of having some sort of blessing for 16 liquor sales. And then on the other hand saying it 17 is an irrelevant license, let's abolish it.

18                   And I would just suggest to you that 19 when it comes to community decision making, I think 20 Mr. Rogers' number when he talked about the number of 21 entities with 3.2 licenses, about 1500 right now, one 22 thousand five hundred. Those 1500 neighborhoods have 23 a right to know that the nature of the product being 24 sold is different and, therefore, the point that we 25 raise about what needs to be in the title is

1 underscored by the discussion of Mr. Rogers as to 2 both 60 and 61, and we think as is the point about 3 multiple subjects. Thank you.

4 MS. STAIERT: All right. Any 5 discussion?

6 MS. EUBANKS: I don't think so.

7 In terms of incorporating our comments
8 from #60, that I think that the reports previously 9 talked about single subject and found it to be a 10 single subject. I'm still comfortable with that 11 determination, and so the only change would be in 12 regard to the argument set forth in F of the motion.

13 MS. STAIERT: All right.

14 MS. EUBANKS: And whether we could make 15 the same change on 61 as we did on 60 which was after 16 income and --

17 MS. STAIERT: And I think we dealt with 18 this in terms of the single subject at a 19 rehearing on 50 --

20 MS. EUBANKS: 52.

21 MS. STAIERT: -- 52, so that argument
22 will be incorporated and clearly the Board believed 23 it was a central feature, but I'm not sure that that 24 makes it a separate subject, which is why this 25 question raised much differently than the other one.

1       And I think that we described that feature in the 2       measure, and there would be no surprise to the 3       voters.

4                   MS. EUBANKS: So I would move the 5       language that appears on lines 5 and 6.

6                   MR. BLAKE: Second.

7                   MS. STAIERT: All those in favor?

8                   (The Board voted.)

9                   MS. EUBANKS: Then I would move that we 10      deny the motion for rehearing on Initiative 15-16 #61
11      to all arguments except for that in F which we made 12      the change, and for that reason we would grant the 13      motion in that regard only.

14                  MR. BLAKE: Second.

15                  MS. STAIERT: All those in favor?

16                  (The Board voted.)
