1900 Grant Street, 9th Floor, Denver, CO 80203

TOPIC: Juveniles in the Legal System – This program will provide an overview of the path of a juvenile in the legal system, including how it is determined whether a juvenile will be tried as an adult.

SPEAKERS: Bonnie E. Saltzman is a sole practitioner based in Denver. Her practice focuses on juvenile law, family law, child custody, child support and child abuse and neglect. Saltzman served on the Colorado Juvenile Council from 1987-97 and has remained active in the organization from 2001 to the present.

The Honorable D. Brett Woods was appointed a District Judge of the Denver Juvenile Court in September 2007. He hears a docket of juvenile delinquency and dependency or neglect matters. Prior to his appointment, Judge Woods was a county magistrate and municipal judge. Judge Woods graduated from the University Denver College of Law, where he was editor in chief of the law review. He clerked at the Tenth U.S. Circuit Court of appeals, and worked in private and public practice before joining the bench. Before law school, Judge Woods worked as a reporter.
